

Riverboat, Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 14.

Joni Mitchell; $1.50, $2.50 cover.

Canadian folksinger Joni Mitchell, now married and living in Detroit, is a bright, engaging performer and a sensitive, original folk composer.

In her return date at Toronto's Riverboat coffeehouse following a successful November booking, she displays an ever ripening voice, and is an eyeful in a tight-fitting mini silver lame dress, and sporting flaxen hair that falls below her shoulders.

Opening with her own song, "The Daisy Summer," she introduces her newest, "The Wizard Of Is," and continues on with a Mitchell sampler, "Just Like Me," "Blue On Blue" and "Nght In The City."

The numbers have much appeal and rate recording by folksingers on the lookout for new material. They are quiet songs, sometimes forlorn and always evocative.

Miss Mitchell, or rather Mrs., because she is married to Detroit folksinger Church Mitchell, is a talent to watch. She's booked here to Feb. 26.
